As you begin your year at Central you are given a place which is essential to school life — your locker. This becomes a place for you to call your own within the school. It soon seems that your own personal space lacks a basic element, a friend. A person to share interests, ideas, and also space. After the addition of a friend the locker loses its stiff, cold appearance and becomes a home as you add decor, personality, and warmth.

Time goes by and you feel that your locker is shrinking. An optical illusion is taking place before your eyes. Your locker isn't disappearing, you're just growing. Piece by piece you've added additional elements and objects. It is then rare combinations begin to form. Perhaps your lunch, English notebook, and gym clothes find a new home in the band room just as you have in these few months. How often do you find The Scarlet Letter, and the sweater you wore last Thursday in your anatomy drawer? In the locker room, from under the sea of shoes, socks, and sweats your physics book, assignment sheets from chemistry, choir music, and car keys appear.

You have now shared ideas and space with a friend and compiled your own rare combinations in various places. Yet two major elements must be combined to complete the winning combination.

Combinations in Various Places

Central — The Winning Combination

This element can be achieved through combining the creativity, contributions, and cooperation of activities, while sports gives us determination, pride, and spirit. Our achievement, awareness, and advancement in curriculum is enhanced by the helpful, informative, and dedicated staff. By individuals combining their own choice of activities endless combinations can be formed.

Still, A major element of our combination is missing. The essential number that will unlock the door. When lacking this element no other combinations can exist. By simply adding yourself to the combined interests and efforts the door will open. Then you will find Central — THE WINNING COMBINATION.

The Suspense

It was October nineteenth, nineteen eighty-one when the student body of Central High School was gathered in an assembly for one of the most thrilling events of homecoming. While filled with excitement, the audience waited for Mrs. Beerhalter to name the five candidates for Helen of Troy. Appearing on the wall of the gymnasium were baby pictures of each candidate. As the pictures appeared, the audience could spot the candidate right away because she was either blushing with embarrassment, crying, screaming, or all three.

As the homecoming week progressed, no longer did Kelly, Linda, Dawn, Brenda, or Mary, go around school still in a daze from all the excitement. Instead they were preparing for the big day, Friday October twenty-sixty. Once again the students gathered in the gymnasium, but instead of seeing baby pictures of the five candidates, they saw five beautiful young ladies walking up the aisle approaching their escorts. Standing on the stage filled with suspense were the candidates with their escorts: Linda Malosky and Mark Oestreich, Mary Neally and Mark Johnson, Brenda Peterson and Gary Nisius, Dawn Montgomery and Mike Graves, Kelly Lorentzson and Phil Baker. The suspense grew as John Faegre walked behind each girl placing the crown above her head. The audience held their breath, waiting impatiently. Finally they were able to gasp a breath of air as the crown was placed on Mary Neally, the 1981-82 Helen of Troy.

Center 22-19

Homecoming week was kicked off with Ribbon Day. The senior girls wore ribbons and the senior guys tried to get the girls to talk to them. If the girls did talk it was good-bye ribbon. At the end of the day the guy with the most ribbons was named Mr. Irresistible. This year the lucky guy was Mark Postudensek.

The big question for Tuesday was "What do you wear for 60s day?". The Student Council decided to try 60s Day instead of 50s Day because we are into the 80s and we must move with the times so they moved up a decade.

Wednesday, Flower Day, prayers were answered. The question was "Will I get a flower from that special person?". The halls, classrooms and lockers were decorated by colorful carnations from friends, and perhaps that special someone.

Thursday was full of activities with it being Hat Day with hall decorating and the Ice Cream Social held that night. The Ice Cream Social was a new addition to Homecoming Week this year. The ice cream was supplied by Bridgeman's and served by the Student Council. Everyone at the social was really excited for Friday after Vijay Mehrotra told the city, over a local radio station, that Central was going to beat the Cakes by a score of 22-3.

Finally it was Red and White Day. Mary Neally was crowned Helen of Troy on Friday morning. School was dismissed so students could attend the big game at Public Schools Stadium. That night the student body gathered in the cafeteria for the dance honoring Helen and her court. Final note: Vijay was close. The Trojans were victorious over East, 22-19.

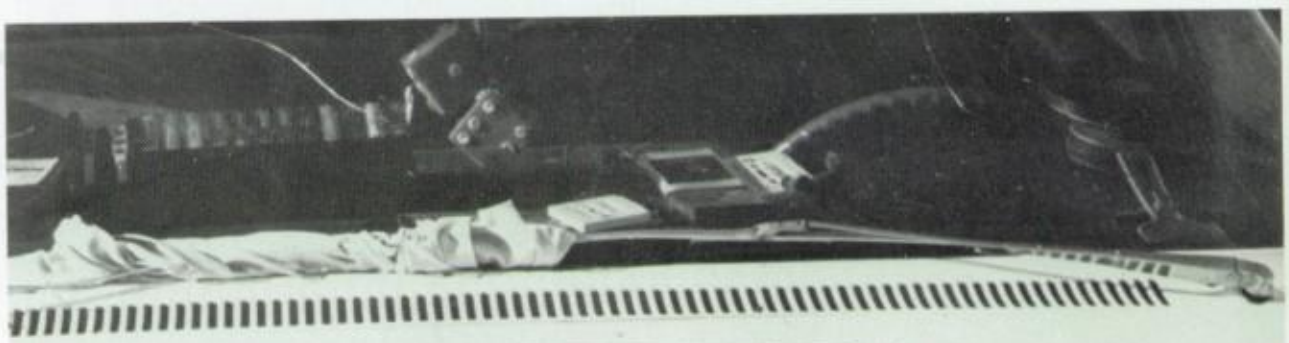
A Feeling of Freedom

Even though money was harder to get, a car was still the most important thing to senior high students. Finally having the freedom to go to and from school at will and being able to drive to that big football game at Public School Stadium is what almost all students wanted. Remember the days when walking down Central Entrance to go to lunch was common? No more! Now there was actually time to sit down after ordering; lunch didn't have to be eaten on the return trip.

But getting your license and having a car wasn't always fun. The price of everything has been going nowhere but up including gas, repairs, parts, and the cars themselves. Many kids had one or two jobs to keep themselves in the money so their car could have all the necessities (an ear-shattering car stereo system) as well as the extras (fur, dice dangling from the rearview mirror, custom paint, and a powerful engine under the hood).

A lot of things change while others don't. The same people who, now as parents, worry about their kids owning and having the responsiblity for a car once wanted the same thing — the freedom that a car brings . . .



Lynn - I'm really glad I got to meet you and become friends. I really hope we can become better friends in the next 2 years. Maybe we can do something together this summer ok. Mr Bergs was pretty fun. I really don't have much else [redacted] to say except have a nice summer and keep in touch.

Love & Friends

MANY WOM

"POWER"

The most unique combination occurred when Students, Faculty, and Administration gathered in the gym for Pep Assemblies. By cheering their favorite teams on to a victory, students were given the chance to show their school spirit. Sophomores and Juniors showed their enthusiasm with "BATTLE CRY," but the SUPER SENIORS, the only class allowed to stand, and "SENIOR POWER," were heard above the underclassman's feeble attempts. As the girls shouted "RED" and the guys replied with "WHITE," "GIVE US A RED" proved which sex was superior. Another favorite cheer was "WE'VE GOT POWER," especially when a few Senior guys changed the words to "WE'VE GOT SPUDDER."

Coming Together

One of the most exciting parts of this combination was cheering with your friends. This helped students feel more a part of their class and gave them a sense of comraderie. However, when all three classes joined together in the singing of the School Song, one couldn't help but feel the pride Trojan students have in Duluth Central High School.

Combination

King of the Hill

Every morning hundreds of students drive up the long, steep driveway to Central, yet few notice the beauty which lies below the pinnacle on which Central was built. Vibran sunrises gradually faded into blackness as the individual glow of city lights became dominant. The rest of Duluth watched the same sunrises and the same luminous sphere sink behind the horizon, but no one saw the days pass as we did. As King of the Hill we saw our kingdom as the unique and majestic city it is.

It Was Amaze(ing)

Students may have felt as if a scientific test was taking place when they first entered the remodeled English and social studies area. The reasons to reconstruct were as solid as the new cement walls. The upstairs had to be redone because of damage caused by water leakage from the roof and Central's famous asbestos particles had to be removed. Central was built in 1971 to accommodate flexible modular scheduling. As years went by, this form of education became outmoded and its use was ended. However, the modular architecture still remained. It was decided that Central was to add doors to classrooms, remove thin partitions, and to expand classroom size to provide a more traditional setting. It was also decided that the small gym should be refurbished and improved. New floors were put down, the ceiling was fixed, and the weight room was moved to a more accessible area.

The changes made to Central's appearance was well worth the money that was spent. Total costs of remodeling were just under one million dollars. These changes were aMAZE(ing) for a time but students grew to enjoy the new facilities and traditional setting.

Another Good Year at Central

Once again the publication of the new Zenith for 1982 signifies the close of another school year at Duluth Central. It has been a year filled with events which will linger in our memories for the rest of our lives. We'll only have to reopen the pages of this memory book to have our thoughts recapture those moments when, as a school or as individuals, our lives were linked in some way with one another.

Being a part of the Central High School tradition has enriched all of us in some way and it is my hope that the learning experience each student has had during 1981-82 will be appropriate and meaningful as we move toward our life goals.

With every good wish for the future,

Richard H. Carlson

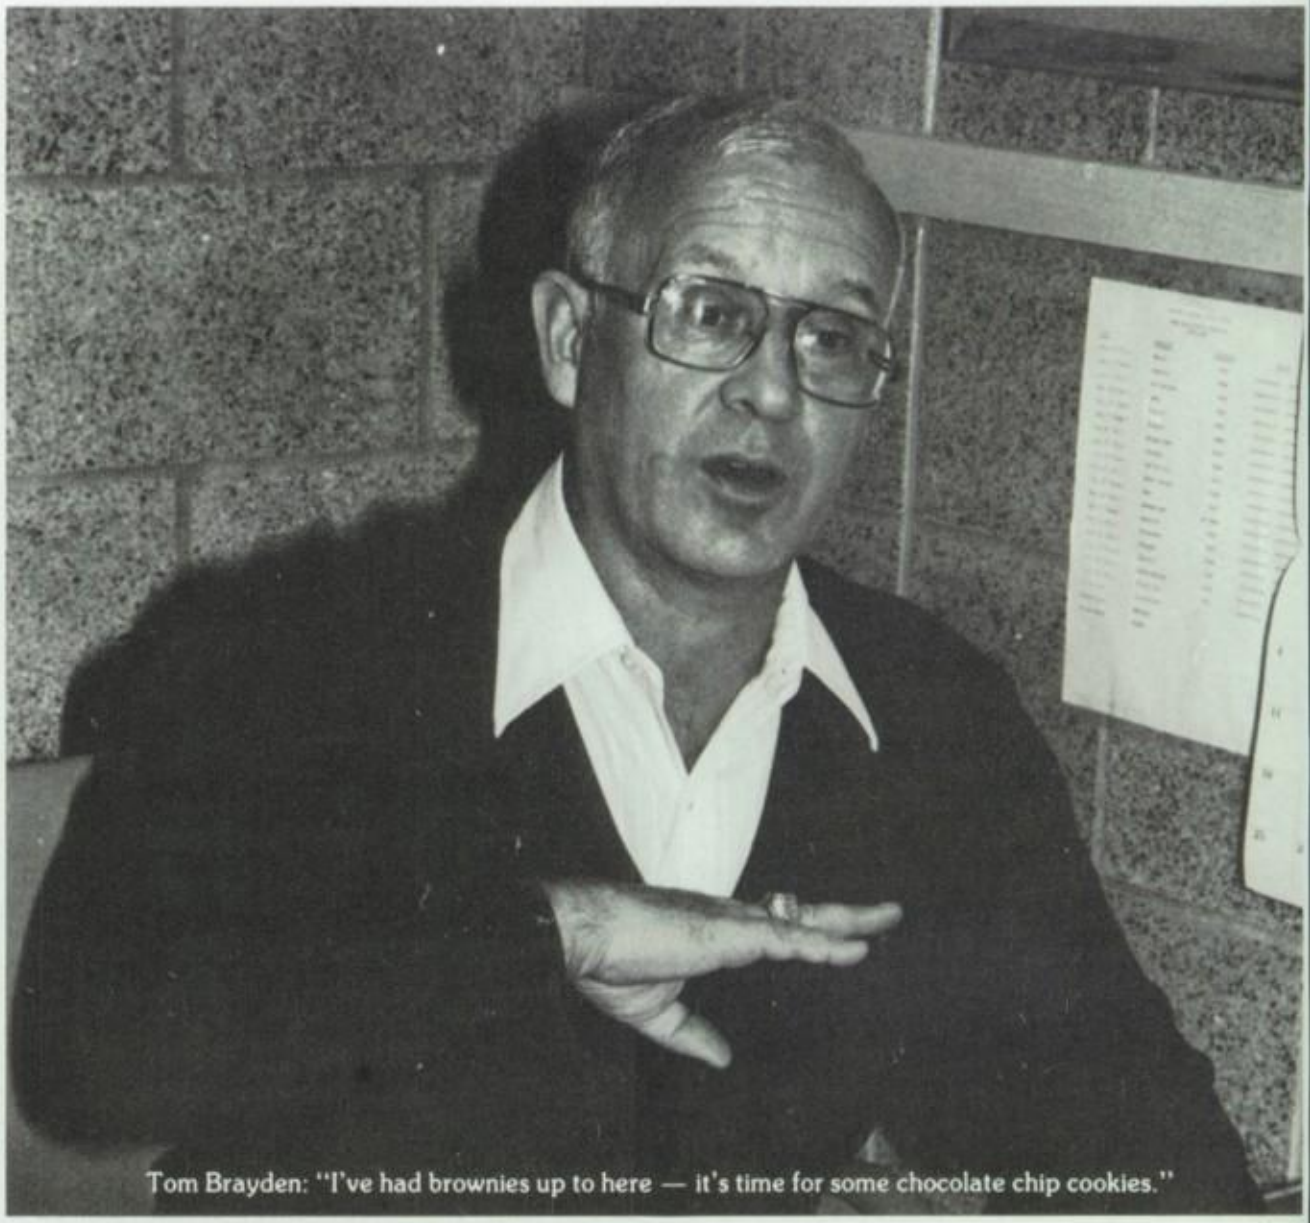
A Big Change

Students could be heard in the halls saying, "Did you know we won't be having Arena Scheduling?" Computers, instead of students, would be making schedules. People thought the switch would be difficult, but it proved not to be. However, the counselors made many program changes. About 500 changes were made during the week before school started. The new system made more work for the counselors, but helped make a smoother opening of the school year.

The problems weren't with Arena Scheduling or schedule changes; it was with the kids. They didn't know what classes to take. The kids sometimes picked courses because his or her friend was taking it. Of course all Central students did not do this.

Classes were easy for a counselor to switch. It became another story when trying to find a class that someone likes which met at the mod they had open. Sometimes classes were filled, so the only alternative was a study hall. The counselors weren't putting all the blame on the students. They just wished that they would have been more careful in choosing their classes. Students should have put more time and thought into their choices — more than they had in the past. This could have helped to eliminate unnecessary schedule changes.



Tom Brayden: "I've had brownies up to here — it's time for some chocolate chip cookies."

Art Defined

What is art? Art is a creative endeavor; an attempt of something a person has or hasn't done before. Art is the making of things which have beauty and form. A person expresses their feelings by creating art. Art is a way of relaxing; a break during the day. It is a method of recreation that is productive. Art is also a skill which is acquired through many years of practice. Creating art requires a student to work day after day. This is the only way to improve.

Art at Central is much like this. Students who take art have either been blessed with creative talents or have started from scratch and developed their talent. Since art classes meet every day, the students are able to take the time they need and create a work of art which is unique, special, and all their own.

What does art mean to students? One student said that art is "a portrait of your feelings or mood." Another student added that art is "a means by which one expresses one's inner self." Central art students had something to show for their efforts for which they would always remember.

1) Some of the artwork that the students have been working on. 2) Art is not all fun and games. 3) Creating takes time. 4) Teaching someone how to weave is not an easy job.

New Look

That's right; the English department has taken on a new look. Remodeling took place last summer and fall to make the Duluth Central English and Social Studies departments more efficient. The chaos of teachers having to find substitute rooms and changing rooms often was quite a bit to handle. Some teachers had to switch rooms more than once a week. Some days students couldn't be sure where their classes were. There were many mixed reactions about the remodeling. Some students claimed the new section looked more like a jail than a school. Others stated that they liked the new walls because you could no longer hear through them and there was more privacy. All in all most teachers have found it easier to teach in the newly remodeled departments and decided that the changes were for the better.

Sophomores in Health

Central's health department changed the required health class grade from 11th to 10th. The juniors who normally had to take health were accompanied by the sophomores. The teachers had to teach double-time, having more classes added to their schedules. Many people liked the change but others felt sophomores weren't mature enough for health. The sophomores didn't mind the change because it gave them a choice between taking health as a sophomore or junior.

Central's small gym was redone during the summer. It had a new floor, the asbestos was cleaned off the ceiling and all new lights were installed. They set up a universal room, and expanded and carpeted the weight training area. The students held a fund raiser which earned thousands of dollars for new equipment. More plans have been made for the weight room in the next few years. When remodeled, they also made the weight training area barrier free for use of the handicapped students.

New Wave in Math

What is it that can: manage large amounts of data, solve complicated problems in math, business, and other areas, do repetitious, monotonous skills, serve as an entertainer, as in video games, manage home and office records? A computer of course! And Central's got them! This year Central received 3 PETs (Personal Electronics Translator), 2 MECC (Minnesota Educational Computer Consortium) terminals for the students use. Central has had a Computer Programming class for 7 years, originally taught by Charles Nelson. Of course there is Basic Math, Algebra 1 and 2, Geometry, Trigonometry, Pre-Calculus, and Surveying. Some of these are crucial for students planning to make a career in engineering and other fields where math is related. But a little Computer Programming wouldn't hurt, for in today's world everything's going to the computers.

Sewing Intrigues Cathy

Although handicapped, Cathy Burke did not let that stand in her way. Cathy tried to get as much knowledge as she could from the different things around her. One of the ways she did this was her involvement in a sewing course. Here she had the opportunity to be independent and to accomplish something that meant a lot to her. Cathy sewed many projects and had a great feeling of accomplishment when they were completed. Knowing that she did it herself and seeing the end results added to Cathy's excitement. At first it took some adapting and knowledge to get used to the sewing machine because she had to use upper arm pressure to operate the machine. However, this did not stop Cathy because she was confident and knew she could do it.

Social Studies

Many students at Central went to their Social Studies class thinking they would have a great time learning how to dance, have fun, and most of all be social. Boy were they surprised. In History they learned about all types of events and people from the past. In Economics they discovered how difficult it is to make it in this world. Well not only was it not a "Social Hour," it was a lot of hard work!

But we still ask: What is Social Studies? Well the people who would probably know the best are the people who teach it. When Mr. Velander was asked, he replied; "A study of man and his actions, why man does what he does." Most people, if asked, would come up with something very similar to this; Social Studies is a study of Social, which can be translated to, a study of Society.

No Car Dates With the Folks

Remember the good ol' days when every time you went out with your friend(s), mom or dad drove? Then comes tenth grade — the big break! You get your permit, you're on the road to freedom, and WHAMO!, your instructor puts on Signal 30. Suddenly you've got second thoughts about carrying out your dream, but you get a few embarrassing flashbacks of the folks pulling up and whaling on the horn, the nauseous feeling you had from the flick isn't as bad as you thought.

Before you finish the course, you receive your "little white card," and the anticipation grows. Lo and behold, the time comes when the last day of your dream is to be completed (or so you think). On your way up to Proctor you're thinking "This is it boy, the last time I'll ever have to ride with mom and dad again." And sure enough you make it the first time! . . . Or did you?

"No Speakie"

Picture yourself in an elegant restaurant in Europe (could be France, Germany, or Spain), the waiter comes to take your order, and the only thing that comes out of your mouth is "No speakie!." It's bound to be in your top ten "Most embarrassing moments of my life." And it's all because you wanted an extra mod off, and failed to sign up for a language class! For now Au Revoir, Auf Wiedersehen, Adios!

Science: The Search for the Truth

Science is a progressive and interesting concept. Due to the advancement of technology in the science field, many jobs will be available and perhaps some new ones will be found. By having taken a science course or two, you can always remember the great times with your cat in anatomy, learning all the bones in the body, searching for the truth in chemistry and even getting the chance to dissect a few insects.

1) Mr. Lundberg intellectually speaks to his students. 2) Mr. Blatnik tells the basics on the cell. 3) Mr. Johnston corrects one of the big biology tests. 4) Shelly Erickson and Dan Pederson work out their physic problems on the board. 5) Steve Lindbeck observes his new assignment. 6) Steve Lindbeck finds out what cats are really made of. 7) John Solem and Cindy Eaton get help from Doc. 8) Bruce Messelt observes tiny particles under a fine microscope. 9) Steve Lindbeck gets on down with his cat.

Familiar Subjects

Typing, shorthand, accounting, data processing — do these subjects sound familiar? Of course they do. They are just a few of the classes available through the Business Education department. Just about everyone that has a Business Ed. class agrees that it will be a great help in the future; it gives them a chance to see a little bit of what they will be up against in the years to come, which is just what the teachers are trying to do. They want to prepare the students for the future in both the business world and in their personal lives.

A Change Worthwhile

The Media Department has proven to many that the adage, "progress, though worthwhile, is not always pleasant," is true. Students entering the areas formerly A.V. and library (now the media department) at the beginning of school found a mess — boxes, boxes, and more boxes. Later they found the program had increased the efficiency of the system, the materials available and the students' involvement in the department.

The department was developed to provide more information and better efficiency. Now students can get print and non-print materials, dealing with most subjects — English, Social Studies, Health, Gym, Driver Education, and Science, to name a few.

This year there were 28 students helping in the new department; they learned about both areas — library and AV. In previous years, students helping in the A.V. Department didn't receive credit for the class, but now even that has changed.

Mr. Carlson said the new department was "total chaos" now, but next year everything should be running smoothly. As soon as the media department begins to stabilize, Central students will know it was worth waiting for.

1) Teresa Hacket taking it easy. 2) A.V. cadet seeking an answer. 3) Kelly Davey hard at work. 4) The new system of checking out a book can be a problem. 5) Mr. Carlson making a deal.

Lunches Are Hot

Even with the higher price, eating was still popular. Students paid the new higher price and ate mostly hamburgers, pizza, and french fries. Central students didn't, however, eat the Spanish rice and stew. Preparing lunch for the student body required the work of three cooks and eight helpers and one kitchen manager, all of whom enjoyed their work. They liked cooking for the kids at Central because they liked the kids. A small poll confirmed the majority opinion of the student body "at about noon they liked a hot lunch."

Cleaning Men

The eight custodians worked at Central in shifts all day. The custodians cleaned the stairs and the rooms once a day. Hallways, bathrooms and rooms were the hardest to clean, because of the mess the students made. Blackboards were washed once a week. Central's engineer kept everything running smooth in the school. Larry Lanhart kept a close eye on the garbage cart during lunch hours. Also, at Central and most schools, two custodians cleaned during the night.

Independence

ADAPT . . . for independence. Students involved in the Orthopedically Handicapped Program learn to be aware of their special needs, limitations and abilities and barriers limiting their opportunity.

They learned to adapt or assist in changing situations to meet their needs. Adapting was often necessary in "hands on" classes. A student with a physical handicap could learn to drive a car and use only hand controls, cook a meal in the kitchen designed for the handicapped or learn to type using one hand.

The student's goals were to remove all architectural, physical and attitudinal barriers standing in the way of their independence.

REAL PEOPLE

ABC may have had its REAL PEOPLE but Central also had many unique individuals. While Sara Purcell and the rest of the REAL PEOPLE hosts could boast of individuals who defied death, overcame all odds and were truly special, Central could claim fame to these students and will continue to remember them in the future.

A Learning Experience

This year was special for many of the Moderately Mentally Retarded (MMR) students. For some it was their first year at Central, for others it was their second. For the Seniors it meant graduating with the class of '82. For all of them it meant learning with their peers, and doing new and different things. For the students at Central it meant making special friendships with special people. The teachers who made this possible are: Mr. Hollis, who teaches pre-vocational skills, human awareness and physical education; Ms. Wieriman, who teaches reading, communication, physical education, and creative leisure; Mr. Hallback, who teaches self-help skills, home living skills, and mathematics; and many others who dedicated their time to help. The advantages of attending Central are: Modeling appropriate behavior by watching the non-handicapped, acquiring new dignity and self-worth by being able to identify with Central Trojans, and helping non-handicapped peers, and teachers learn of the strengths and needs of handicapped students.

"Drama Rats" Show True Talent

The young cast had only four weeks to prepare three one act plays. Though some crucial rehearsals, including the all important final dress, were cancelled because of Mother Nature, "Mother Pecore" pulled the cast through. The performers rehearsed not only in the auditorium but spent hours at home memorizing lines and working on characterization. A mystery, "High Windows" and two comedies, "If Women Worked As Men Do" and "The Marriage Proposal" were presented January 25. After the cast members had washed away their makeup the results were announced to the excited thespians. Anton Chekov, a small but experienced cast, and "The Marriage Proposal" had won! Vijayk, Phil, and Lisa traveled to Hibbing, "the great metropolis of the North", the next weekend to compete in Sub-Regions. Though the play unfortunately lost, cast members of all the plays had truly won. A special feeling was experienced by working closely and intensely with a group with a common interest. The magical ring of applause had vanished but the experience gained and the friendships made will continue forever.

Combination

The Big Band

On any given day you could walk into Music 3 and watch one of the best high school bands in Duluth rehearse. The band practiced every day fifth mod and had sectionals after school. They played at football, hockey, and basketball games, and pep assemblies. They also gave great marching performances at the homecoming game against East (despite freezing temperatures and on-and-off snow), and at the 21st Annual Christmas City of the North Parade in November. The band is made up of various musical instruments and many different types of students. The combination of these instruments, the talented students who played them, and the excellent direction of Mr. James Stellmaker made Central, once again, proud of its band.

Love, Fun and Dedication

Jazz Ensemble was defined as 20 persons, 20 instruments, one director, 24,360.5 hours of practice, several hours of frustration, and a large helping of love and dedication. In reality Jazz Ensemble meant playing at Pop Concert, Cerebral Palsy dance, proms, Jazz Festivals in O'Claire and U.M.D., Helen of Troy and the King of Hearts Corinations, only to name a few. Listening to the Jazz Ensemble was one of Central's Highlights for the year. One we will remember for a long time.

Classy Strings

Central's orchestra had a very busy and exciting year. They performed in three concerts, consisting of a winter concert which they played Christmas carols, a spring concert, and the annual Pop Concert which requires the most work, yields the most fun, and is the highlight of the year.

They played some very difficult music during the year. They played some up-to-date pieces and the traditional classical music. Each and every piece they played took a lot of concentration and co-operation on the part of each orchestra member.

Central's orchestra consisted of very dedicated, talented musicians. It took many hours of practice and rehearsing to put together one of Duluth's best high school orchestras.

On the Move

Chamber Orchesfra is made up of a selected number of people from the main orchestra. To become part of the Chamber Orchestra you have to go through a rather simple interview and of course you have to be one of the top musicians in your section. Since Chamber Orchestra is a separate class from orchestra, it's your decision to be involved with it or not. To put it all together Chamber Orchestra is just a smaller, traveling version of the orchestra.

Bringing Joy

Music is a universal language; it unlocks doors to different worlds. Music is used on happy occasions as well as sad. It brings joy to people who are down, and peace to those who are hurting.

Music is sung in many different languages, but the foreign words do not need to be understood for people to enjoy it. What people remember after hearing a song is not just the words but the melody.

Music flows from the heart. A singer does not sing because he has to, but because he wants to. They bring joy to themselves as well as others.

This year, both of Central's choirs sang various songs, some of which were in foreign languages. The students had a lot of fun performing these numbers because they were a switch from the English language which was 'old-hat.' Music, for these students, was sometimes serious, sometimes happy, but always fun.

You've been great this year! (HA-HA!) I mean you've been a person who has been fun to be around. I love your way of talking (with your nose)!!! Track is fun and you'd better join again so I'll be able to make puns at you next year! Have fun this summer and enjoy yourself.

Good bye and God bless!

"Get Happy"

Fifteen unique individuals, all with a common love for singing, made up the 1981-82 Little Mob. Each member was selected for their personal charisma, musical talent, and their ability to work together. Mob grew closer through performances and by having occasional get togethers. The group benefited from these events, since a family feeling was established between each person involved.

Throughout the year, Little Mob sang at numerous places. During the holiday season, for example, Mob performed at over 15 events. Of those, the most memorable was singing at Glensheen while the most warming was sharing their music at various rest homes.

Little Mob worked with music from all ears. They went from madrigals from 1500's to a medley of the 1930's, which contained a famous song called "Get Happy." Through all of the personal achievements, and as each goal was reached, Little Mob was the perfect opportunity for each person to "forget their troubles and just get happy!"

Performing Drama Rats

Would you have believed that on November 13 and 14 Central's auditorium was transformed into a adoke house inhabited by five German nuns? Under the direction of Evelyn Pecore, "The Lilies of the Field" proved to be a success. The philosphical Father Gomez narrates the play which concerns; Homer, a "big strong man" who is filled with the need to wander, Mother Maria Marthe, a sargeant in a nun's habit, and four lively young nuns. The characters of Jose Gonzalez, a Mexican cafe owner and a miserly construction company owner, Orville Livingston added to the plot. Though the play was a comedy it also was a parable which brought the audiences the message that "with faith all things are possible."

Central was fortunate to have acquired Evelyn Pecore, a Duluth Playhouse director as the Central Drama Dept. director. She brought life, enthusiasm, professionalism, and dedication to the department and the Drama Rats. "The Lilies of the Field" had to be produced in only four weeks, two weeks less that the usual time needed. This required extra hours after school and on Saturdays. The Drama Rats (which include actors and crew) became close as they worked and learned together. The actors will long remember fighting with lines, heavy black habits and characterization. The novice techies will remember learning how to run a light board, set lights in one easy lesson and being teased about washing the gels. All will remember a backstage chicken dinner and the cast party. Their roots now firmly planted, the Drama Rats were ready to row gand blossom into true thespians.

All in a Day's Work

There is a roar from Home Ec. 3, suddenly the intimidating voice (and figure) of the Student Council President, Dan (Disco) Ginsberg, is evident; "The meeting will convene." Another legislative session has begun.

First on the agenda is the discussion of the balloting for Queen of Athletics. The seniors unanimously feel that the sophomores should not be allowed to vote. Ginsberg gives the sophomores one-half vote by executive order. Darrell Martin responds by gunning one of his crutches at the Disco King. Our fearless advisor, Bonnie Beerhalter, shouts "You're out of order!" VJ responds under his breath, "Like a pinball machine." The sophomores applaude, the seniors are given two votes. That's justice! Next on the agenda, the Helen of Troy balloting committee (better known as H.O.T.), volunteer to handle the Queen of Athletics balloting thus changing H.O.T. to Q.U.A.C. (Queen of Athletics Committee). The meeting now moves into the discussion of the calendar for the winter months. Candycane Day has turned out to be a smashing success. Kelly Lorentzson, seeing the number of upcoming events exclaims, "Oh, I can't wait! It's gonna be so much funnnnnnn!" Disco Dan licks his lips, noting the number of dances scheduled for January and February. Mary Neally, our faithful Vice-President, makes a motion that the meeting be adjourned. Linda Malosky exclaims, "I second the motion . . . I think."

Though Student Council may have sounded like a lot of fun, at times, don't be fooled. This groups of students, led by "Mrs. B." proved to be the most dedicated and well organized group at Central.

Record Year: 2 Teams to State 1 to Nationals

For the first time in Central's history, two debate teams represented our school at the state tournament. It was the first time since 1967-68 that Central qualified a debate team for nationals. Joy Skjegstad and Jim Kurkowski flew to San Francisco to compete in the National Debate and Speech Tournament. It was a good experience for the students, all of them grew to be close friends, as well as meeting many others from competing schools, for they sacrificed every weekend for five months to tournaments. What do they do on these weekends? To begin with, each year a National Debate Resolution is agreed upon. This years resolution was: "Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Establish Minimum Educational Standards for Elementary and Secondary Schools in the United States". The activity involves speaking, analysis, and refutation (arguing a subject to prove it true or false). Through this one not only learns of the years topic, but also how to get along with others and "compete under pressure". The varsity team members were: Megan Mattson, Cory Andrew, Jim Kurkowski, and Joy Skjegstad. The novice team was large and had an exceptional year, which makes a prospective future! (if there is one!)

Plainly Speaking

Speech was more relaxed than debate, but just as fun and exciting. Speech is divided into eight catagories; from writing your own speech to performing a selection from a play. The students learned how to speak well in front of others and were just as devoted as debate students for meets are held on Saturdays only! While debate is more or less a "team sport", speech is more individualistic. Success is not always measured by ribbon and medals but by what you learn about yourself while speaking competively. Contentment was gained only by succeeding personally but by watching and sharing your friends success and helping them through failures.

the central spectator

The task of making a high school paper is not easy. No one knew this better than the Spectator Staff, especially the editors. The editors had the fun job of putting the stories and pictures together in a desperate attempt to meet the deadlines. Although the deadlines were not always met, the staff and their lovable advisor "Macho Mikey" McKeon did their best, despite a small staff of predominantly inexperienced writers, to put out the best paper possible.

The first few issues of the school year were set back due to the remodeling of the Spectator office. The office was lacking many needed materials including the light tables, which enabled editors to layout and design their pages. Another set back was the postponement of the darkroom which they couldn't move in to until a week before Christmas.

The Spectator staff had, and is looking forward to, a promising new year with returning advisor Michael McKeon.

West Meets East

American Field Service: Doesn't sound too exciting, does it? Fooled you! AFS could have given you a chance to literally see the world. I know the Navy promised the same thing but somehow I think that it would be much more pleasing to have lived in France, perhaps only minutes from the Effiel Tower, than to have spent two years at sea! Instead of sitting at home watching, Prince Charles and Lady Di saying "I do," via satellite, imagine what it would have been like to have actually been sitting in the church! AFS could have made your seemingly wild ideas of foreign travel closer to reality.

The entirety of Central, not only the club's members, gained from the American Field Service. Ivana and Magnus were always willing to answer the questions students asked them and were eager to turn the tables and ask questions of us. Their friendliness was appreciated by all and their presence made us a bit more worldly by bringing a little bit of Europe to Central. AFS provided not only an international student exchange but an exchange of thoughts and experiences which brought benefit, and memories, to us all.

NHS Certificates, Book Sale, and Recognition

Character, leadership, good grade point averages, and school participation were the qualities the panel of faculty members looked for in students who applied for NHS. NHS had a book sale for fund raising this past year and they were responsible for the certificates for students who made the Honor and Merit Rolls after each grading period. Though NHS has not been that active, it was an honor to be chosen as a member.

A New Rule

"There will be a Pep Club meeting today mod 9; Attendance is mandatory!!!" This announcement was heard by Pep Club members many times throughout the year. In previous years, there had been a problem in getting all members involved and putting their full effort towards Pep Club duties. This year, however, each member was expected to attend each meeting and help out in the various jobs presented to them. At first this new rule seemed very unreasonable to some, but soon it's benefits were recognized. This extra dedication allowed the club to have one of its most successful years.

Pep Club succeeded in doing a tremendous job decorating their hall at Homecoming. The most stunning and beautiful decorations were seen in the stages of the Helen of Troy and Queen of Athletics coronations. Above all, Pep Club's most important job was providing a way for students to get involved with activities at Central. With the many hours of hard work put in by the officers, and the enthusiastic attitudes of the members, Pep Club was a fun experience for all involved.

Embarrassed

For many years, the coronation of Central's King of Hearts has taken place on the night of the Sweetheart Dance; this year was no exception. As the Jazz Band played, the candidates walked down the aisles to meet their escorts at the bottom. Chris Graham and Mike Graves introduced each candidate with a description of their school involvement and a few items from their past. Tension built as the participants took their places. The 1982 Helen of Troy, Mary Neally, held the crown over several heads before finally crowning Gary Nisius as the 1982 King of Hearts. Blushing, dropping the crown, and catching it, Gary said, "I was very surprised, honored and embarrassed!

Snowbound

Amazing! I bet we set a record for the most postponements of a high school coronation. I'm sure that those five girls never imagined they'd have to wait two extra weeks for the coronation then what was originally planned, because of blizzards and what have you. After the first postponement the suspense held throughout the week was actually to find out whether or not the coronation would be postponed for a second time. The forecasts looked grim and sure enough, it was postponed AGAIN! Another week of torturing suspense for the Queen of Athletics candidates, their escorts, and the pep club decorating committee. In the end there was a great turn out, considering all the unusual circumstances. Let's shoot for three next year!

Talented Twirlers

Central's Majorette squad consisted of five talented twirlers and one fine instructor. These girls worked hard not only during school but even in the summer to construct not only one of the best routines, "Private Eyes," but one of the best squads Central has had. This squad is excellent not only because of their talent but their unique personalities. Tina Wasbotten was the rowdy basketball season captain. Tina, with her banged up knee, laughed in every performance; what else could she do? Then there was Lisa Lax, the football season captain. It has been said by another twirler, Diane Barbo, that she has the mouth of a cheerleader but the talent of a twirler. However, Dizzy Diane had a bad habit of locking her keys in her car at every football game. There also was Sharon Turcotte who liked to tell unusual stories on why she turned out so short and cute. Finally there was Lori Krause. Lori, besides trying to make simple things complicated, did all the worrying for the squad. Central had a new instructor who was a top ranked national twirler. Keli-Anne Whetten, a sophomore, spent a lot of her own time helping out the squad, and designing routines. Previously from New Mexico, she has competed and ranked highly in national competitions. Her little southern-belle accent combined with the squad's unique personalities made this year's majorettes a fine, talented group.

5, 6, 7, 8!

For the first time in Central Highlighters history, sophomores were allowed to dance on the danceline. By the time the sophomores become seniors they will have had two years of dancing experience behind them. They practiced hard with the rest of the squad; last summer for football games, Christmas vacation for basketball games, and all year for assemblies and various statewide danceline competitions.

Sophomores were not the only new addition to the squad. Denise Wayda became their new choreographer just before Christmas. Denise, a junior at UMD, helped the squad learn new and different dancing techniques with her 6 years dancing experience.

Together, the squad kept their spirits high and their dedication loyal to make one terrific danceline.

Starting From Scratch

Last year the girls' basketball team ran into trouble when they didn't have a group of cheerleaders to cheer them on and they were heading down to State. The boys' basketball cheerleaders couldn't cheer for them because it would conflict with their schedule, so the hockey cheerleaders took over. They cheered until the season was over, and by then everyone realized that Central needed another squad.

At the end of last year tryouts were held as usual, but this time there was a new addition. It was an A-squad for the girls' basketball team. Throughout the summer the football cheerleaders donated their time and practice to help the new squad get started. They practiced two days with the girls' basketball squad and one day by themselves. Their season got off to a rough start, but improved quickly. They were expected to perform like an A-squad and did quite well. This year's squad did a good job and in the coming years it will prove to be even better.

Wondering what that is? It's our volleyball team's favorite cheer! Central's volleyball sure had a lot to cheer about because they had a good season.

To prove their dedication to the sport, they went through a two week conditioning program before school started and practiced almost every day during the season. The teamwork was visible in every minute of practice and play. The key to the team's success was a combination of energy and teamwork.

All the Way

This year's cross-country team was something to be proud of. The practices were long and hard, but the results at the meets outmeasured them. Injuries plagued the team, leaving many members "out of the running" in some meets.

The team was coached again this year by Kerry Louks. Coach Louks gave the team encouragement to strive for their best time and outrun the competition.

The combination of the team's efforts and Coach Louks' leadership helped the team to go all the way to State in October. This season was one to be remembered.

Take a Dive

The boy's swim team had very few members this season, so there was controversy as to whether or not there was going to be a team. They put in a lot of time and effort, and practiced 10 times a week. They did very well for such a small team. Mike Graves (in the 100 breaststroke), and Tim Andrew (in the 100 back, and 200, 500 freestyle) were the standouts. "The team has the potential to make serious gains in the next three swimming seasons, due to the amount of sophomores," quoted Coach Chip Lewis. Whether meets were won or lost, the team did their best.

Get Going

"Flip, flip, get going, set go." That was what Coach Howes was usually yelling. Plunging into the pool on Aug. 26th was earlier than most girls expected. Most of the practices consisted of 500 yards warm up, whistle sprints, and a lot of yards — 6,000 yards, four hours a day, then two hours a day, with a total of 8,000 yards. The team was made up of three seniors, four juniors, and nine sophomores. The meet between Central and East was one of the best in a long time. The Central girls were leading in the first half 18-13, but the Grayhounds pulled it off in the end to win it 44-38. This year was the first time that the girls swam in the morning and afternoon. Peggy Lewis broke the school record in breast-stroke with the time of 1:15.50. "I felt great," said Peggy. The future of the team looks great. Coach Howes commented, "The three optimistic things about this year's team were they were mostly all sophomores and juniors who were very talented. And the seniors had good leadership qualities, this combination was a good sign that Central swimming program will be looking good in 1982.

40-Love

The members of the girls' tennis team did have a love for tennis which was shown by their hard work and dedication. The season started the last week of August and ran through the month of October. Practices were held every other day Monday through Friday. The girls ended their season with a record of 3 wins and 4 loses; which was an improvement over last year's record. The Regional Tennis Tournament was held in Hill City on October 14. The girls were narrowly defeated by Silver Bay by a score of 3-2. The team will be more experienced next year although the two graduating seniors, Sondra Bergland and Chris Graham, will be missed.

Hard Hustling

The girls' Junior Varsity basketball team was on the move this season working to improve their overall playing skills. Fifteen athletic girls, led by coaches Sharon Meyer and Jay Tyllia, set several goals for themselves and for the team.

The team tried to cut down on turnovers, improve rebounding, and controlling the ball more skillfully. To supplement this, the coaches tried to help the girls run the offense more smoothly than they had in the beginning of the season.

Individually, each member dedicated themselves to increased concentration toward the coaches' advice and to take time to work out their own weaknesses. Reducing the number of missed freethrows thereby reducing extra running was another commitment.

The team, coaches, and "a lot of hard hustling" made the girls' JV basketball team a great combination for Central.

1) Karen Olson makes a spectacular jump to block a shot. 2) Joyce Heine passes the ball to a fellow Trojan. 3) Girls' JV Basketball Team: Front Row: J. Siiter, A. Robbins, J. Prouty, M. Lady Trojans

With no returning starters, the "Lady Trojans" had quite a job cut out for them this year; to defend their Lake Superior Conference Championship; the Sub Region and Region titles and 4th place finish at the Minnesota State Basketball tournaments.

Coming off a second game loss to the Superior Spartians, the Trojans tightened their belts and went to work. Their hard work consisted of two hour practices on every non-game day and three hour practices on Saturdays. When Christmas vacation rolled around the practices lasted three hours every day with a two day road trip to Minneapolis to scrimmage with Hopkins Eisenhower. This helped the Trojans tremendously, as they realized they could compete with teams from all over the state.

All the hard hours of practice paid off, for the "Lady Trojans." Once again they had a winning season, 15 wins and 3 losses. They also took second to East in the Lake Superior Conference.

The 1982 Girls Basketball Tournaments began on March 2 for the Trojans. Central defeated the Cloquet Lumberjacks at home to move on to the 2nd round against Princeton which was at UMD. Central edged it out with a shot in the last 5 seconds to win by 1 point. The 3rd round was played at UWS where the "Lady Trojans" pulled out another close one against Denfeld. Central then moved on to the finals of Region 7AA against East. The Trojans weren't so lucky this time. The Greyhounds won by a heart-breaking 3 points.

Although the girls didn't go down to State, the season ended with a good feeling. They accomplished more than was expected and had one of the best seasons Coach Lahti has had. The team for next year has 11 returning letter winners along with a strong junior varsity team.

"A" SQUAD SKATERS TO BE ADMIRED

Though the A Squad Hockey Team encountered a lot of hang ups this past season the enthusiasm and dedication they had has to be admired. The season started out slow for the Troy Skaters. Poor school support, injuries, and unwarranted abuse of goalies, gave the team difficulties and sometimes even poor attitudes, but during the season things got better. Second-year Head Coach, Steve Lasky, gained a new assistant coach during the season, Tom Willmar, who sparked the team and gave them a better outlook on their game. The confidence they gained helped the team be more successful and good attitudes were formed.

"B" Team Gets "A" for Effort

This year's Junior Varsity hockey team (otherwise known as the "B"omb squad) got off to a slow start. However, after they had a chance to work together — that's just what they did. They started to become a real good team and, as good teams do, they started to win. Central's "B" team spent a lot of time on the road, even going up to Silver Bay two or three times a week playing two games back to back. It should be mentioned though that all time spent away from home wasn't spent on hockey. They did find some time to fool around — such as a ketchup fight in the Dairy Queen in Silver Bay. Duluth Central had a pretty good team, growing in experience but already having a great deal of respect for the coaches and each other.

Progression

Phil LeTourneau and Charlie Banks combined their time and talents to benefit Central's skiing program. Phil LeTourneau, the coach of the Alpine Team, felt the team progressed during the practices and tryouts. Over all the team had a good season despite Duluth's famous 1982 cold snaps. Charlie Banks, coach of the Cross Country team, was skeptical of this year's team, as only two boys tried out. He was sure, however, that they would give all they could at the races. The season was a success, as all the talented skiers had a good time.

1) Coach Banks, Bob Waltenburg, and Pete Graves, Central's cross country ski team, would much rather be skiing. 2) Peaceful trails, falling snow, and Pete Graves. 3) Beautiful ski trails may be why Bob Waltenburg loves skiing.

Deserving Credit

The season began on the wrong foot with Central's basketball team losing to the Rocori Spartans, but they quickly switched feet, and were off to a great season. They won one game after the other, improving their playing ability each time, the first game in which the team felt they really had to play their very best was the Central-East game. When Central heard that the shorter Dudek, Brian, was suspended from East's team because of a violation of the rules, the odds of winning increased even more. That night, December 11th, Central defeated East 59-54. Central won four more games before meeting up with East again, but this time with both Dudeks. The game was a bummer, losing 64 to 37.

The Central Trojans went on to win the rest of the regular season games and share the Lake Superior Conference Championship trophy with East. With the season at a close, tournaments were being scheduled. Proctor was Central's first opponents in the play-offs which were held in Central's gym. Central came away winning 68-42. At UMD, Central played and won Milaca. Hibbing, a very powerful and favored team, was the team left to play before advancing to the finals at the Arena. Upsetting a lot of predictions, the A-basketball team went on to play in the finals against East. The game was fast moving and highly emotional. Central led at the half with a record-breaking crowd looking on. The game disappointingly came to an end with the Greyhounds winning 62-46.

Even though East supposedly had the better team, the team which deserved the most credit for improvement throughout the season, and playing their hardest every game, and putting it all together in the end was the Trojans.

B Before A

Although many students seem to believe 'A' comes before 'B', that is not always the case. In basketball for instance, the 'B' team usually comes before the 'A' team. The 'B' team is needed to build-up the players' skills and it gives them the needed experience that is necessary to make 'A' team.

Another way in which the 'B' basketball team comes before the 'A' is that the 'B' games were played before the 'A' games, but this was not always to the players' advantage. Most of the fans would come during the fourth quarter just so they could see the 'A' game, not realizing that the 'B' team needed their support also. Even though there was a lack of crowd support, the team had an excellent year.

To "B" or Not to "B"-Squad

It was Tuesday afternoon, raining, and cold. It always seemed like Tuesday afternoon, raining, and cold. Their coach was mad and shouting. He always seemed to be mad and shouting. The team could not help but wonder why they were there. Maybe for the glory; no, there was no glory. Maybe they did it for the fun; no, there was no fun. They didn't do it for the pain, yet there was pain. They did it for the experience. 'B' squad wasn't an end to itself, but a means to an end. It was the skills they needed to make 'A' squad, developing a knowledge of the game that would make them better players, sharing a common experience. It was Tuesday afternoon — it was cold — but it was worth it.

It is not the critic who counts, not the man who points out how the strong man stumbled or where the doer of deeds could have done better.
The credit, it belongs to the man who is actually in the arena;
whose face is marred by dust, sweat, and blood;
who strives valiantly, who errs,
and who comes short again and again —
who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions;
who spends himself, in a worthy cause;
who at best knows in the end
the triumph of high achievements and at the worst, if he fails, at least he fails greatly so that his place
shall never be with those timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat.

Fall Is Football

Changing leaves, crisp cool air, and the start of the school year, all helped bring fall into mind for Central students. For the football team, however, fall had begun weeks earlier. Before the team could say they were in shape, they had to get through long, strenuous practices. For some stretching, throwing, and running berma came easier than for others. All got through it and were in better shape than before.

The Trojans lost their first five games which discouraged them, but their win over Morgan Park raised their hopes. The team went on to dominate the Superior field to increase their record to 2-5. The biggest game of the season was homecoming. The spirit of the entire school was behind the team as they burned the Cakes in a thrilling 22-19 victory. This win was the best of the wins since it gave Central increased pride in their school and team.

Along with the last game of the season came snow and bitterly cold weather. The homecoming victory remained in the minds of Central students through the school year and will be remembered for years to come.

A Change of Seasons

For the 1981-82 Boys Cross Country team it was a year of ups and downs. Being plagued with injuries all through the season, the chances didn't look very hopeful for the team to participate in the state meet. When Regions rolled around, luck was with the team, they were healthy and ready to run their hearts out. They arrived in Hibbing and found two inches of snow and the thermometer reading 15°. As the bus pulled in, the dialogue was "This is our weather, it's snowing — all right!" At the end of the day, cold but happy faces walked on the bus. They placed second in the region and were going to State!

On Thursday, October 29, the student body sent the team off with a party in the cafeteria, and Friday the team headed down to the cities. They watched the Single A meet on Friday and ran on Saturday. The weather was warm and sunny, but the team had a bad case of nerves. After the race had been run, and the results posted, the team found that they had placed 14th out of 16 teams. They were number one in the Region. Coach Louks commented that it was good experience, and the team hoped to be down at State again soon. Congratulations guys for a job well done!

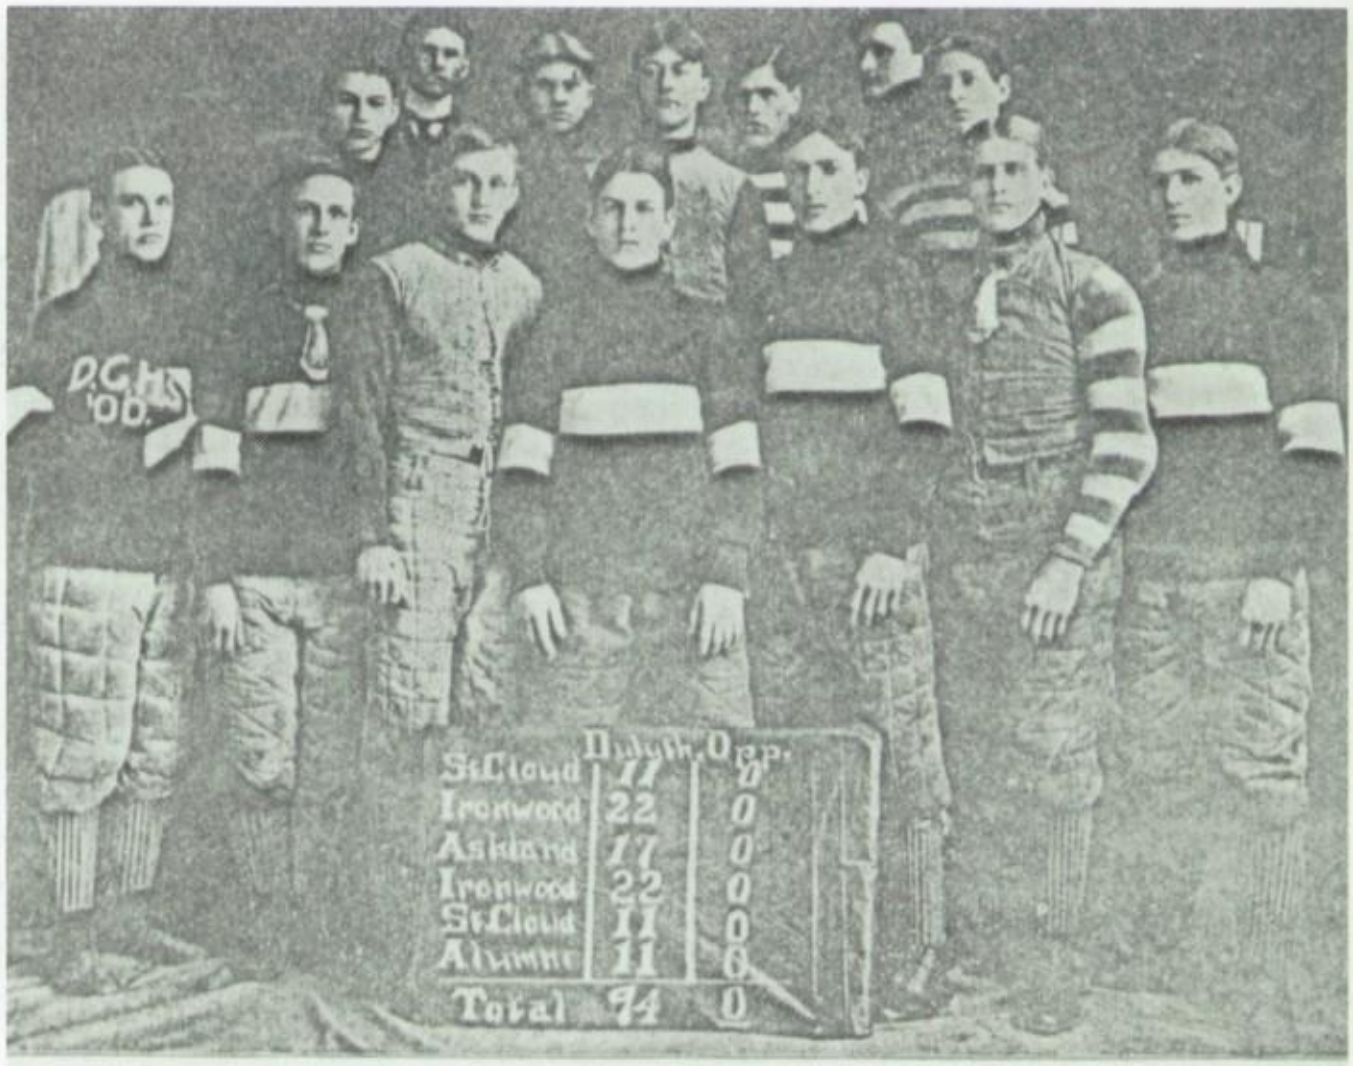
Duluth Central High School
Nineteen Three.

Obviously, Central's cheers have changed over the intervening years. Almost anyone now would say for the better, but we should realize something very important — that was a drastically different era.

The sayings and cheers we have seem normal to all of us as the sayings of 1901 seemed to Central's students then. Different tastes for different times made 1901 and 1982 unique.



FOOT BALL TEAM '01.

JUNIOR CREED.

We, the Juniors, believe in ourselves, in our ability, infallibility, respectability and reliability and, incidentally, in the probability of our teacher's gullibility. We believe in studying only for tests. We believe that, when in the course of human events it becomes necessary for us to take Physics, we should bluff our best and leave our marks to heaven and to Woolman. We consider the teachers of this institution as taskmasters and we believe it not only our right but our duty to deceive, annoy, and defraud them in any and all ways whatsoever. "Eb denique" we believe in the words of Mr. Custance, that, (in the words of the Psalmist,) "we have more understanding than our teachers."

JUNIORS ARE STILL THE SAME

As this Junior Creed shows, the names change but many of the sentiments do not. We have been accused of arrogance because of believing in our "infallibility" and even accused of being "annoying" at times. We joke and give the faculty a hard time, all in fun, because they, most at least, have a sense of humor.

As years pass, people come and go; familiar names disappear into Central history but our memories of those wonderful days live on forever.

High School Colors—Red and White.

This first page of the 1901 Zenith is a classic example of the yearbook's simple and straightforward format.

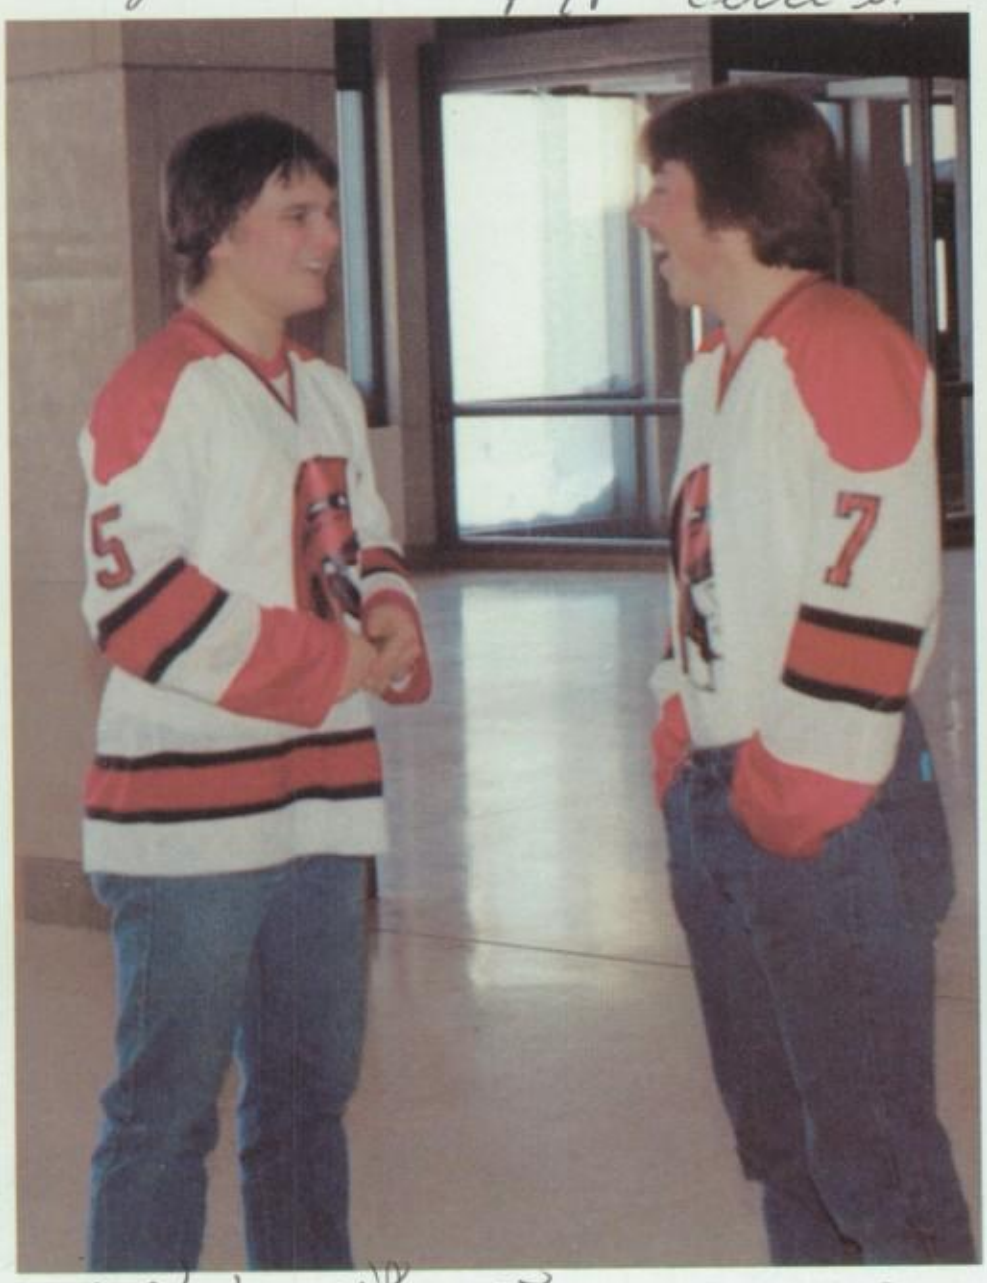
Since the graduating class of Duluth Central High School in 1895 published the first yearbook called the ZENITH, nearly everything has changed to become part of the "modern" age.

Printed in a time before most of our grandparents were born, the Central Zenith of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries had few pictures and literally tens of thousands of words. This sight-orientated age finds these ancient yearbooks to be very dull because they contain several poems, only class pictures and a few, select team pictures, and absolutely no color.

Along with everything else, our humor has certainly changed. The jokes that are found in all the early Zenith books just do not prompt many to laugh. Here's a sample — Mr. Baldwin: "Property is something that can be owned, smelled, touched, felt, heard, or seen. Are there are others?" — Brown: "Nothing, unless liquid air."

Yearbooks are meant to refelct the times and fads and that they have done. The Zenith leaves a record of a different angle of high school life than that portrayed by the official class statistics. High schools are certainly the buildings but more importantly, the teachers and students. They make a high school. A yearbook attempts to paint the picture of the school year past. If, in the years to come, it brings back the sights and sounds of Central, the 1982 Zenith will have been worth the while.

Lynn, (oops!)
I'm glad we were both on the track team together so we could get to know each other. I think you have such a cute personality! Hope your last 2 years at Central are the greatest. Have a great Summer
FA Terri S.



Lynn- this will be the year comes to a close & I have to say I'm glad it's over except for the last 2 months (Boo-Hoo!) But no more French (Boo-Hoo!) But I was truly mad because Cheerleading didn't like I was said "Make the Hockey girls squad 'cuz next year there's practices will be a drag but well worth it when the school year starts. So Keep your chin up and make sure to parler vous Francais over next year! I Know!! Thus summer's

Primary Colors

If you have ever walked through the halls at Central and spotted a group of students wearing the same outfits, you probably got the idea they called each other that morning and set it up. Well, you were right. During the day of a cross country meet, you could see the members of the team wearing their radioactive red sweaters. If you passed a young man dressed in a red blazer and black pants, you would get the hint that there was a basketball game to be played that evening. Or perhaps you saw a person wearing a red and white DCHS hockey jersey, this could only mean one thing; there was a hockey game to be played.

Central's sporting events wouldn't be complete without red and white. The one group that adds a lot of the color is the danceline. During the day in school they can be seen in their red skirts and white oxford shirts. Another group that adds color is the cheerleaders. The basketball cheerleaders can be picked out of a crowd wearing their green pants and blue sweaters. If you see a girl wearing a white sweater with red hearts on it and a jean skirt, you can label her as a hockey cheerleader.

Not only people involved in the games wear day uniforms. Other groups such as Little Mob and Jazz Band can be seen in their dazzling outfits on the day of a performance. The governing body of Central High School, otherwise known as the Student Council, proudly displayed their red and white shirts.

Day uniforms brought color combinations and coordination to Central.

REAGAN WOUNDED

WASH. — On March 30, 1981 at 2:25 pm EST, the nation stood utterly dazed by the attack on another President, Ronald Reagan. Outside the Hilton Hotel, John Warnock Hinckley Jr., 25, stood among the reporters and fired six shots that hit Reagan after richocheting off the limousine, Press Secretary James S. Brady, Secret Service Agent McCarthy, and DC Police Officer Delahanty.

At first, the news reaching the nation, world, and even the White House was sketchy and unreliable. No one, including the President, knew that he was actually hit until the motorcade arrived at George Washington Hospital. Emergency procedures were taken to stabilize the condition of the President. He walked into the hospital on his own but collapsed once inside. It was finally determined that unlike most cases, the bullet, called a "Devastator" because of its explosive property, had to be removed by surgery that lasted two hours.

James Brady, the "Bear," suffered a much more serious blow to the brain where the bullet lodged. He has since had many operations just to stabilize him. It appears that Brady will have permanent paralization on his left side and his return to the White House high position is in doubt, contrary to early speculation.

Ronald Reagan is now back to work without any apparent difficulties. Americans are pulled together again after another tragic incident in American politics — everyone of every party hopes the last.

With the President in surgery and Vice President rushing to Washington, Secretary Haig wished to assure the nation and world that the US gov't was under control. In the tension of the moment, he mixed up White House control with Presidential succession. Though this may have been his most serious blunder, Haig remained in office.

POPE SHOT AT VATICAN

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II, spiritual leader of the Roman Catholic Church, was hit by gunfire on May 13 while standing and waving from his convertible vehicle. The assailant appears to have been a Turkish radical named Ali Agca, though still pictures that have come to the attention of Italian authorities only recently indicate that there were at least two who wielded guns in Vatican Square that day.

The Pope is now fully recovered from this brutal attack.

SADAT DEAD

CAIRO — Anwar el Sadat, President of Egypt, friend and loyal Arab ally of the United States, was gunned down by members of his own military while reviewing a parade in celebration of the eighth anniversary of the October War. World sentiment expressed moral outrage at the carnage.

For security reasons, Reagan and Bush decided against attending the funeral but to clearly emphasize the importance of Sadat to America, an unprecedented official entourage was asked to go — Presidents Carter, Ford, and Nixon — headed by Secretary Haig.

The hope of the world is that Sadat left a legacy of peace.

DIANA CAPTURES PRINCE CHARLES

LONDON — Prince Charles, 33, heir apparent to the throne of the United Kingdom, married his 16th cousin once removed, Lady Diana Spencer, 20, both descendants of King James I. The citizens who love their ceremonial monarchy are relieved that Charles has finally married and are very pleased about the eloquent "Shy Di." Though Americans in general seemed less impressed with the whole situation, all three major networks carried live coverage of the historic event — some starting as early as 4 am CST with a surprisingly large viewing audience.

As is common in royal families inheriting a throne, the pressure to produce heirs is substantial. The officials of the Queen at Buckingham Palace have announced that the Prince and new Princess of Wales are expecting a baby later this year.

Whether one follows royalty or not, a sense of history in the making is prevalent.

FRONTIER OPENS

CAPE CANAVERAL — The long awaited launching of the Space Shuttle, praised as a monumental move forward in technology and condemned for being behind schedule and over budget, finally happened. It marks the hazy boundary between a continuing era and an emerging one.

When President Kennedy fully set our space program in motion, we were in the midst of the Cold War with the USSR. John Kennedy dedicated us to the race to place the first man on the moon after the Soviets unexpectedly launced the Sputnik I. Since, America has excelled in the field by sending several manned missions to the moon and dozens of probes to Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn. The Shuttle continues man's journeys in space which ended for the United States in 1975.

NASA is now embarking on a different journey, though. The increased mobility at a smaller cost that the Shuttle grants will cause us to quickly become a truly expanding species. Space stations and self-contained ecosystems are a thing of the very near future. When the Space Telescope goes into orbit in 1985 carried by the Space Shuttle, astronomers will have the ability to see seven times farther than they can from earth. Several mysteries of the universe and the earth should be solved.

The Space Shuttle COLUMBIA will become a routine thing in our lives because of the frequent trips it will make as well as the military applications. As for John Young and Robert Crippen, the first Shuttle Astronauts, they will go down in history books as the courageous men who started it all.

Poland vs. Solidarity

"WARSAW — Because of the mounting discontentment of its own people and the subsequent rise of Solidarity, Poland is standing at a turning point in its history. Soviet intervention remains as ominous as ever if the internal political events in Poland do not stabilize.

The Soviets have seen the Poles defiantly stand against their government time and again with strikes, blockades in Warsaw, and rhetoric demanding democratic principles by Lech Walesa and other Solidarity officials.

The instigation of martial law in December brought tanks and troops into the cities of Poland to quell the public dissent. The official story of the Warsaw regime constantly contradicts the independent reports of news organizations. Stories leaving the nation indicate that some troops can't speak Polish which gives rise to rumors of Soviet troops being involved. Polish gov't controlled television has shown troops receiving candy from the peasants; reliable reports the next day told of army men being sick as a result of food poisoning in candy.

Intervention by the Soviet military has been the concern of many worldwide including the top officials of the new Reagan Administration. In the view of the Kremlin expressed in the official news, Polish activity is becoming too unwielding and "counter-revolutionary." Imposition of martial law by the Polish hierarchy appears to have appeased Moscow hardliners. Besides the stinging attacks in Pravda, Warsaw Pact maneuvers in and around Polish borders this year have brought on stern warnings from President Reagan and Secretaries Haig and Weinberger. The pope continues to plead for calm.

PATCO fired

WASH. — In mid-August, the official air traffic controllers' union, PATCO, called a strike after deadlocked negotiations resulted with the government. President Reagan contended that as public employees, they were legally forbidden to strike. PATCO said the President was bluffing; the US Gov't sent striking controllers dismissal notices within 48 hours.

Union President Robert E. Poli continually reasserted everyone's right to strike. The Administration position was always clear: all signed oaths against ever striking while a public employee so when they struck, they also resigned.

President Reagan declared that those who struck and didn't return during the grace period would be forever banned from holding any gov't job. Poli resigned on Dec. 31 hoping that Reagan would change his mind — he didn't and probably won't.

Zenith Zone

We know that the floor was covered with popcorn. We know that the windows had little smear marks on them from people swishing their noses against the glass and were covered with pictures, but creative people are messy!

Perhaps a sign should have been placed on the door: "You are now entering a world unlike your own. You are now entering . . . THE DEADLINE ZONE." You would have seen paper and popcorn crumbs covering the floor and articles, belonging to Kelly Lorentzen, all over. The dialogue varied with who was in THE ZONE. When female members of the staff happened to use the twilight room (between the bright office and the dark darkroom) to change clothes, cries of "If you guys open that door I'll kill you and then drop your grade!" were heard. Eighth mod brought confused coversation: "What's the size of body copy?", "Kerry's where's Kelly?", "When is the deadline?", "Where's my copy that Chris proofed? You know, the one with stuff scribbled all over it!", and "I don't care if you do have to stay here all night long, I need those pictures tomorrow!". Ninth mod found the editors discussing important things, such as; was it really twelve dollars to change that one spelling error on page ten, how was the budget holding up, and who they were going to ask to the next dance! At lunch time, food which wasn't supposed to be taken from the cafeteria magically appeared in THE ZONE. It was also about this time that the aroma of popcorn could be traced to the Zenith office.

THE DEADLINE ZONE may bring back memories of hours spent designing layouts using the grid system, writing copy that was always criticized, or inhaling chemical fumes while printing thousands of pictures right before the deadline. Try to remember the friendships, the good times, and the experience you've gained. We can all be proud as we look at "our" book, for we gave a very special part of ourselves to Central!

Photographs

It's incredible how a flimsy piece of colored paper can mean so much to us. A picture captures a fraction of a second forever. As you look at a photo it brings back to mind the thoughts, feelings, and impressions of the moment. As the color fades, the paper yellows, and dust collects on the cover of the photo album, the pictures become treasured possessions of the past. As you stare into the picture and into the past, the times can then be relived.

The Final Turn

The closing of another school year has come. The walls of our school hold a special part of our lives. The once overstuffed lockers are now empty with just the precious memories of the past year tucked away inside. The once crowded, laughter-filled hallways are now hollow and silent. The place we once dreaded coming to some mornings now seems like a place of warmth and security.

This was the year of the independent. The combination of winning personalities and unique talents made this a very special year. None of us will forget the feelings of pain, excitement, sadness, joy, disappointment, and love that was shared.

The memories of the year will be treasured more dearly and will grow more precious with time.

Lynn
It's been great getting to know you this year. I had a real nice year and will have to get together more parties this summer. Hope you have fun in the future. Take care

I found rusty

They are priceless

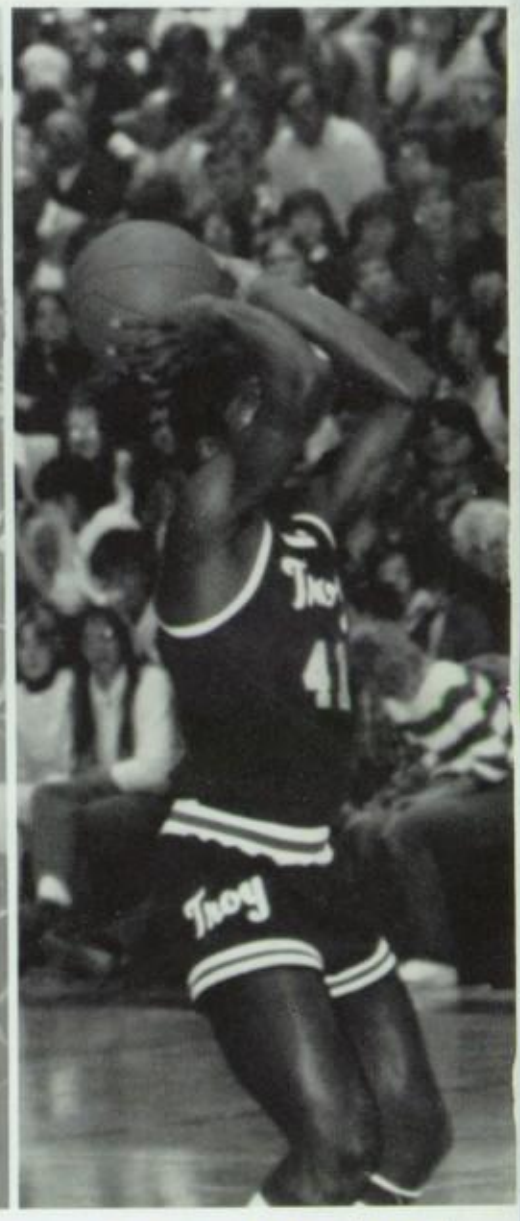
They are mine.



Lynn, It's really glad you've had you in some of my classes this year. I think we've become good friends. (at least I hope so!) I hope things turn out for you whoever your "honey" is. Take care of yourself & try to stay out of trouble. Give me a call sometime. O.K.?

Lynn,

It's kind of a bummer that we weren't as close this year as we have been in the past. I hope that over the summer we can remedy the situation. Of coure we'll have to cooperate with each other but I'm sure we can handle it o right! As you're paging through this year's Zenith I hope you'll pay close attention to the: Business Ed, Chamber orchastra, J.V. Hockey, Skiing, and Zenith Staff layouts. Those are the ones I did. Stories and all. Well, It looks like I'm running out of time, so I'll sign off for this year - until then...
